

Information on pre-2008 eligibility for accounting, administration, commerce or economics units

If you are currently in a Commonwealth supported place (CSP) studying either accounting, administration, commerce or economics units, you may be eligible to pay a lower rate of fees for these units if you have studied in a CSP previously. Your prior study in a CSP does not have to be within the above disciplines but the course must not be completed (unless you are now undertaking an Honours year).

Name: _____

Monash Student ID No: _____

Course: _____

Campus: _____

Was your prior CSP study undertaken at Monash University?

Yes extra documentation is required

No you must attach proof of your pre-2008 CSP status from your previous university. The student services area of your previous university may provide you with a letter for this purpose which states:

the name of your prior course, and the year/s you studied and that this course has not been completed, and that you were in a CSP.

If you cannot obtain a letter from your previous university you may submit other documentation but it must cover all the above points. For example, a pre 2008 Commonwealth Assistance Notice combined with a recent academic transcript may be sufficient. It is your responsibility to obtain sufficient documentation and to lodge it prior to your units' census date. Monash University cannot obtain information on your behalf.

Lodgement

This form (with supporting documentation attached) can be lodged at a Student Service Centre on any campus or sent to Enrolments, Building 3C, Monash University VIC 3800 prior to your units' census date.
